Good morning,

I hope you all are well this morning! As we start on this journey of distance learning, I wanted to reach out and explain how things will work in our World Geography/Honors World Geography classroom.

We will be using the blog at dahlbergdynasty.com and all lessons will be posted on the class documents pages. The password you need is "spamandeggs." All assignments will be posted there in daily increments – within the unit we are studying. Like this:

Your students know how to scroll through the documents page to the correct unit and find their information.

I'll be posting notes, readings, worksheets, etc. all on the daily "slots." Tests and quizzes will still be given, albeit I'll label them as "Open Notes," because there's no way to guarantee that students aren't using other resources to take the assessments. I'll be using Google Forms or other online platforms to give assessments/ assignments. For Honors students – Mapping Monday continues – I'll post about how you will take map quizzes on your individual blog. For my On-Level students, please check the blog for instructions on how we will proceed with our map learning/quizzes.

Please understand that this is a learning process for me too, and that I doubt anything will be "perfect" for all of us. We can do this – with patience and a good sense of humor. I miss my students already. Each one of them challenges me to be the best I can, and I hope I challenge them to do the same.

If you need to speak with me, office hours will be from 10:30 – 12:00 Monday through Friday. I will be accessible through email at tiffany.dahlberg@cobbk12.org or you can message me via Remind. The signup information for Remind is posted on the class blog homepage for each class. If I find a more convenient method, I'll let you know.

Thank you, and here we go!
